DESERT ARMIES HUNT GERMANS FOR "SHOWDOWN BATTLE"

President Awaiting Reply from Mine Workers' Committee

BRITISH SPEARHEADS KNIFING INTO SIEGE LINES AROUND TOBRUK

By the Associated Press
Britain's armored legions, already within 10 miles of long-besieged Tobruk after an 80-mile advance in 36 hours, today were reported seeking out the "spinal column" of Axis strength in North Africa for a showdown battle of tanks, planes and men.
"The main battle has not yet been joined," a British spokesman said tersely.
"All we have is news of movements and a certain amount of fighting, but nothing on a large scale yet."
Cairo military headquarters said armored British spearheads were knifing into Axis siege lines around Tobruk, while other columns bypassed the stronghold on the south.
It was indicated that at least part of the Axis forces which have ringed Tobruk for more than six months, constantly shelling and bombing the tiny British garrison, were now caught between fires.
Military observers said General Erwin Rommel's German corps was the chief opposition in the struggle on the Libyan desert sands and that the British were maneuvering to engage the corps in a decisive battle.
A bulletin from British military headquarters said British tanks sighted a German tank force 30 miles west of Port Capuzzo, near the Egyptian-Libyan frontier, but that the Nazi force "withdrew before it could be brought to battle."
By contrast, Premier Mussolini's high command asserted that Italian and German mechanized columns "firmly sustained" new British attacks in the four-day-old Libyan offensive and "passed to the counter-attack and repelled enemy armored formations, destroying numerous tanks and capturing prisoners."

CIO SETS STAGE FOR ELECTION

Delegates at Annual Convention in Detroit Predict That a Unanimous Tide of Sentiment to Re-elect Philip Murray as President Will Also Sweep Into Office All Other Incumbents
LEWIS FACTION IS NOT TAKING ACTIVE PART

Nation's Coal Supplies are Dwindling Rapidly as Work Stoppage Nears Acute Stage

Washington, Nov. 21.—(P.)—President Roosevelt indicated today that no federal action might be expected in the captive coal mine dispute before he receives a reply tomorrow from John L. Lewis stating the position of the United Mine Workers' policy committee on the chief executive's latest appeal for a settlement.
Mr. Roosevelt had asked for either maintenance of the status quo on the issue of a "closed shop," as he phrased it, or an agreement to arbitrate, with any resulting decision being accepted in advance.
While Lewis gave a clear-cut indication that the appeal would be rejected by the United Mine Workers, Mr. Roosevelt said he did not think there would be any developments in the coal situation until tomorrow.
Asked at his press conference whether he meant "developments on your initiative," Mr. Roosevelt said no, he expected to hear from Lewis and his policy committee tomorrow and that was what he had meant.
"Have you decided what to do on labor legislation?" a reporter inquired.
There is no news on that, the chief executive responded.
Hit by the widespread strikes in both captive and commercial mines, the nation's soft coal supplies dwindled steadily today, as a senate sub-committee stated the spade work on anti-strike legislation.
The increasing gravity of the soft coal situation, which held a potential threat to the operations of railroads and diverse other industries, was calculated to speed the judiciary subcommittee's consideration of the measure sponsored by Senator Connally (D-Tenn.).
Moreover, there were overnight reports that troops at Camp Forrest, Tenn., momentarily expected to start moving in on one section of Pennsylvania's coal fields. However, the war department here disclaimed all knowledge of any orders that would send army units to the idle pit heads.
One defense spokesman said categorically that the government "doesn't want to use troops" in the strike, but he stressed that it "will not give in."
As the capital saw it, the situation today was this:
All but a few of the captive mines had ceased production in obedience to the strike call issued at the start of the week by the CIO United Mine Workers when they failed to win their demand for a union shop in the pits.
The accompanying wave of sympathy strikes promised to continue unabated in the commercial mines where a UMW shop prevails. In Pennsylvania—one of the five states affected by the captive strike—operators were predicting a complete shutdown of commercial production by nightfall. Additional sympathy walkouts were expected in the remaining commercial pits of West Virginia, Alabama, Kentucky and Illinois.
The captive mines, so called because they are owned and operated by the steel companies, supply only the steel industry, but the output of the commercial mines is for the open market and furnishes the fuel for much railroad operation and many manufacturing plants. In contrast with the 54,000 employed in the captive mines, the commercial miners number upwards of 350,000.
After the stoppages in both captive and commercial pits were reducing the supply of coal above ground, President Roosevelt continues to bide his time—apparently awaiting at least until tomorrow.

WOMAN LEADER OF GANG IS PUT TO DEATH BY GAS

Evileta Juanita Spinelli, 52, Who Ruled Mob of Killers and Robbers, is First of Her Sex to be Executed in California
PROCLAIMS INNOCENCE

San Quentin, Calif., Nov. 21.—(P)—"The Duchess," a haggard, grim-faced woman who ruled a gang of killers and robbers, died today in the state's gas chamber. She was Evileta Juanita Spinelli, 52, the first woman to be executed by the law in California.

The woman was half carried to the death cell by two guards. Her lips moved in prayer as she stumbled into the room.

There was an electric light just outside the gas chamber upon which her eyes were fixed constantly.

The woman, who directed the killing of a gang member she feared was about to tell police about a holdup murder, was dead within 10 minutes and 14 1/2 seconds after the gas was turned on.

Last night as the death hour drew near, she had burst into tantrums. She tore a handful of hair from her head, and screamed.

The great vein in her neck throbbled as the gas rose in the chamber. Her head tossed back. When it was over she looked like an elderly woman, asleep in an old arm chair.

Thus did the woman die for killing a young gang member who lost his nerve after a slaying. He was dragged and thrown into the Sacramento river.

The execution was delayed almost 30 minutes as several petitions were filed in her behalf in San Francisco courts. Warden (Turn to Page Thirteen)

ILL OF PARALYSIS

124 TEACHERS OUT ON STRIKE

Unlontown, Nov. 21.—(P)—School Teachers in Redstone township in Fayette county—heart of the "captive" mine strike—started a strike of their own today in support of their demand for a 13 percent wage increase.

School authorities and a teachers' committee agreed that the strike was "100 per cent effective" among the 124 teachers.

WARREN COUNTY YOUTH IS KILLED IN TITUSVILLE

Glenn E. Loomis, of Grand Valley, Hurt Fatally, and Lloyd McKee, Tionesta, Also Injured in Accident at Iron Works Plant
FUNERAL TO BE SUNDAY

A Warren county youth was fatally injured and a Tionesta man less seriously hurt late yesterday afternoon in an accident which occurred at the Titusville Iron Works in Titusville, where they were employed.

The dead youth is Glenn E. Loomis, 19, of Grand Valley. He died in the Titusville City Hospital at 3:25 a. m. today from injuries received about 5:35 p. m. yesterday when he fell from a scaffold on which he was working.

Less seriously injured is Lloyd McKee, 26, of Tionesta, who was aloft when Loomis tumbled. McKee has a head injury.

According to reports, the men were installing pipe in connection with a heating system at the iron works shop. The pipes ran over a head and Loomis was working aloft while McKee stood below on the ground. What occurred to cause Loomis to fall was not learned.

Glenn Elwood Loomis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Loomis, of Grand Valley, was born in Titusville, May 29, 1922, and had spent his entire life in the Warren county community. He had been employed at the Titusville plant since last February.

Besides his parents, he is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Norma Gustafson, Erie; Mrs. Carl McLain, Centerville; Wayne Loomis, Grand Valley; and Mrs. Robert Helfrich, Jr. Titusville.

Funeral was made to the Arnold (Turn to Page Eight)

KNOX SPEAKS AT THE LAUNCHING OF BATTLESHIP

Newport News, Nov. 21.—(P)—Secretary of Navy Frank Knox speaking today at the launching of the 35,000-ton battleship Indiana, declared the great steel vessel was a symbol of the nation's will to survive in a world of war.

"We know on which side of this fight our hopes and interests lie," he said. "And we here proclaim" (Turn to Page Eight)

Favorite Baby Campaign Gathering Tensity as Final Stages Approach

Tomorrow is Election Day. Tomorrow one of these communities' infant campaigners—one of her examples of childish innocence and pulchritude—will be elected the "Favorite" of all these babies.

The election since its beginning has been a huge success. As a "comeback" among local merchants and expectations. Announced as a "Shower of Gold" election because of the numerous cash prizes it offered to the tiny campaigners, the election has made itself one of the most vital economic forces the community could have found.

It has brought to this community babies a recognition which will enable them when older to reap the benefits of babyhood personalities. It has given parents, relatives and friends an opportunity to bring honor and public acclaim to the most precious possession—the community's fairest and finest little ones, thus is the opportunity of gaining acknowledgment by popular vote of being declared the "Favorite."

WOULD LIMIT EXTRA SESSION GOVERNOR SAYS

Harrisburg, Nov. 21.—(P)—Barring "some emergency" any special session of the legislature called by Governor James will be devoted solely to re-aligning the state's congressional districts, he says.

On the basis of the 1940 census, Pennsylvania is entitled to only 23 instead of its present 34 members in congress. Failure to enact a new congressional districting bill would mean that 33 congressmen would have to be chosen on a state-wide basis next year.

In the opinion of some election experts, the legislature must act before February 28, the deadline for the secretary of the commonwealth to certify to local boards what offices are at stake in the May primary.

The general assembly had flooded the legislature with enough proposed bills for inclusion in a special session call if any is issued—"to keep them there all summer long."

A special session is limited by (Turn to Page Eight)

KIDNAP SCARE KEEPS PHILLY POLICE BUSY

Philadelphia, Nov. 21.—(P)—Nine-year-old Dorothy Spiatt, missing since Wednesday night, was found by police today in the home of a woman in the neighborhood of the Spiatt home, ending a widespread hunt through the North Philadelphia section.

Detectives said the woman found Dorothy wandering on a street last night and gave her shelter. The girl was one of four youngsters whose disappearance caused a kidnap scare in the section.

Last night, after officers had broadcast an eight-state alarm and instituted a house-to-house investigation in the area, three children passing overnight turned up unharmed.

They related they had sneaked into one of the city's subways and after riding to their hearts' (Turn to Page Thirteen)

MUCH SHOOTING IS REPORTED AT CAPTIVE MINES

Guns Blaze Again in Coal Fields of Fayette County With Ten Wounded in Most Serious Flareup of Five-Day-Old Dispute
ONE HURT SERIOUSLY

Pittsburgh, Nov. 21.—(P)—Guns blazed again today in the coal fields of Fayette county, wounding at least 10 men in the most serious flareup of the five-day United Mine Workers strike for a union shop in the steel company owned "captive" mines.

Hundreds of shots were fired as the battle between pickets and non-strikers raged for more than an hour along a valley road leading to the H. C. Erick Coke Company's Edenborn mine, 18 miles north of Uniontown, where three pickets were wounded in gunplay yesterday.

Three wounded men, who identified themselves as pickets, were treated at the Uniontown hospital and seven at Brownsville.

The company store is a quarter of a mile from the mine gates where more than 200 pickets, most of them from coal mines in Washington county across the Monongahela river, had massed before dawn.

Despite the gunfire, Mine Superintendent Edward Mason reported "a number of our men went into the mine and are working."

Most of the wounded were discharged from hospitals. Only one (Turn to Page Thirteen)

LEAVE OF ROMANTIC SAILOR NEAR OVER

New York, Nov. 21.—(P)—Sailor Bill Langford has forgotten every girl in every port except the one he had breakfast with this morning in a hotel suite 35 floors above Manhattan's streets.

They had walked up Fifth Avenue last night just as they had walked the night they met, when Bill found her crying on a park bench. They went to a night club offering Hawaiian music, because Bill had fond memories of Hawaii.

At the Hotel New Yorker, where the management had given them a suite in tribute to romance, they danced to the music of Benny Goodman and Benny dedicated a tune to "Sam" and "L."

Bill's leave until Monday, when he will report at the Philadelphia navy yard.

GUARDS ON TRAIL OF TWO ESCAPED CONVICTS

Belleville, Nov. 21.—(P)—Guards patrolled the railroad tracks and highways piercing the mountainous section for miles around the Rockview Penitentiary today, aided by bloodhounds, in a search for two escaped prisoners.

The pair, John Kelly, 23, serving ten to 20 years for murder from Washington county, and John Tracy, 25, sentenced to two to four years for robbery in Mercer county, walked away from a group of 35 prisoners engaged in building a barn on the prison grounds.

A motorist reported last night two men walking along a railroad track between Port Matilda and John suspiciously jumped out of sight when his car came into view.

Deputy Warden C. C. Rhoads and four guards were assigned to patrol the area.

Warren Youth Among University of Pennsylvania Students Being Held

Philadelphia, Nov. 21.—(P)—Next Saturday, the fourth student of Pennsylvania University, Leon Ottlinger, Jr., 24, of Kingston, S. C., is confined to the university hospital awaiting X-ray examinations of his injuries.

Those remained to jail were Justin Sharrif, 18, of Brookline, Mass.; John Federaro, 19, of Philadelphia; and Walter Scott Calderwood, 18, of Warren, Pa.

HOME FROM HOSPITAL
Friends of Margie Finlan, of Youngville, will be glad to know that she is rapidly recovering and is now at the home of her sister, Mrs. James Farmer, 204 Dartmouth street. She has been a patient in the Warren General Hospital.

YOUTH INJURED
James Williams, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams, of Smithport, R. D. 3, suffered a fractured shoulder and possible internal injuries yesterday morning when a truck operated by his father was wrecked on route 6, about seven miles east of Kane.

PLAN PRESENTATION
On Sunday evening, Miss Edna Matha, graduate corps cadet, will be publicly presented with her certificate and pin for completion of the six-year cadet course of the Salvation Army. It was announced today. The presentation will be made at the evening service in the chapel as part of the local cadet brigade exercises.

MISSING BOY
Jameson police have been asked to look for a ten-year-old boy who has been missing since Wednesday afternoon and had not returned at noon yesterday. He is William Merchant, a student at the R. R. Rogers school there. He was last seen at 5:30 p. m. Wednesday after visiting an aunt.

ON ESCORT VESSEL
Two Spring Creek boys, James and Donald Sicker, are members of the crew of the U. S. cruiser which acted as an escort to port for the German motorship, Odenwald, which was seized in the South Atlantic by units of the U. S. Navy a few days ago. The Nazi vessel is reported to have been disguising herself as a U. S. merchantman when captured.

RELIEF PAYMENTS
Direct relief payments made to needy Warren countians during the week ended Wednesday show a decrease of $8.00 from those of the previous week, according to State Treasurer Harold Wagner. Payments for the week totaled $188, which was 554 lower than those of the comparable week of last year. At the same time it was announced that total payments of $14,257 were made for all types of categorical assistance, including old age assistance, aid to dependent children and pensions for the blind.

BANKS TO QUIT
Plans have been completed for assumption of deposits of the Franklin Trust Company and the Lamberton National Bank, both of Franklin, by the Exchange Bank and Trust Company, of that city, according to an announcement by Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. The transaction, to be approved by stockholders of the banks at meetings in December, will involve the outlay of about $7,000,000 by FDIC for protection of depositors. Purpose of the plan is to remedy an undesirable banking situation in Franklin, it was stated. Bank examiners' reports have shown capital structures of both outgoing banks as substantially impaired for some time.

The output of petroleum products—gasoline, kerosene, and oils—from American refineries in a year would equal in quantity a week's flow of the Potomac River past the City of Washington, according to the Census.

LOCAL RESERVE OFFICERS SENT TO ACTIVE DUTY

Two additional reserve officers of Warren county have been called to active duty with the armed forces of the United States, one with the army and the other with the navy, it was announced today.

Dr. William M. Cashman, local physician, has been commissioned as lieutenant, senior grade, in the U. S. Naval Reserve and will depart for duty on December 9, while Major Harold McConnell, of Torpedo, will report for active duty with the army at once.

Dr. Cashman received his commission on June 4. He will report for duty at the headquarters of the 4th Naval District in Philadelphia. He recently was honored by being made a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

Major McConnell was graduated from Warren High School in 1915, after which he served with the U. S. forces on the Mexican border and in the first World War, being commissioned as a first lieutenant. After the war he attended the University of Oregon and was graduated in the class of 1923. He was graduated from the Colorado School of Mines in 1926 and later was employed as a mining engineer in the gold fields of Alaska until 1930.

As a reserve major he has been attached to the 396th Infantry with headquarters in Johnston, N. C. The War Department orders which he has now received send him to the 1336 Service Unit of the regular army, stationed at the A. P. Hill Military Reservation, Virginia.

Details Completed for Annual Collection for Warren Relief

Plans have all been completed to the last detail and members of the Lions Club with their assistants, the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, are all set for the starting gun on the annual collection canvass in behalf of the Warren Relief Association.

The various groups will start out promptly at nine o'clock tomorrow morning for their house to house canvass and those who have donations are asked to cooperate with the members by having their articles handy on the front porch.

Already numerous persons have gone through their houses from cellar to attic in a search for clothing, shoes, hats and other articles which are suitable for distribution to the less fortunate. Mention of the cellar brings to mind the fact that the women of the Association will be packing

Thanksgiving baskets next week and canned fruits and vegetables will be very acceptable tomorrow.

Officials of the Relief Association assure their friends that a sincere effort is made to investigate every family given assistance and a survey of their current records shows an amazing number of mothers with small children who are greatly in need of warm clothing in preparation for winter's cold.

The association has a splendid record of 50 years of assistance given to the needy and, in view of the generous response of other years, is hoping that every family in town will have some gift for the Lions and Scouts when they call tomorrow.

It was stated today that all Boy Scouts participating in the canvass should meet at the Borg studio before nine o'clock, rain or shine.

BOOSTERS CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Twenty-five members of Warren Lodge, No. 339, I. O. O. F. were in Pleasantville last evening when the degree team from the local organization conferred the third degree upon a class of eleven candidates at the meeting of the Crawford County Odd Fellows' Boosters Club.

The local members were included in a crowd of approximately 150 persons who attended the session.

In addition to the local lodge, delegations were in attendance from Tidoute Grand Valley, Youngsville Sugar Grove and Lottsville in Warren county, as well as from many lodges in Crawford and Venango counties.

A lunch was enjoyed following the meeting.

Sugar Grove

Sugar Grove, Nov. 19.—Thirty-three members and invited guests were in attendance at the evening Club Tuesday evening at the home economics house, where Miss Kathryn Keslar and Miss Maybelle Meyers were hostesses. The Misses Andersen, of Jamestown, and Miss Ardath Chandler played three selections with cello, violin and piano. Mrs. T. R. Sponsler reviewed "The Keys of the Kingdom," by Cronin, in an interesting manner. Mrs. F. A. Schoonover presided at the short business meeting with Mrs. A. A. Grant as accompanist for the singing of "Pennsylvania." Dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Miss Meyers announced a Girl Scout evening, December 15, at which two plays will be given by the Girl Scouts. There will also be special music. The next meeting of the club will be December 2 at the home of Mrs. Scott Stuart with Mrs. Otto Carlson presenting the poetry study.

Miss Kathryn Keslar and Allan H. Frank are directing the senior class play, "American Passport," which will be given at the high school auditorium November 24. "American Passport" is an American play that "is down to earth and up to the minute comedy which every patriot should appreciate."

The annual union Thanksgiving service will be held at the Methodist church Wednesday evening, November 26, with Rev. John McCleary, pastor of the Free Methodist church, delivering the sermon. Everyone is invited.

Plans for a window display that the junior and senior home economics class prepared for showing how to renew old chairs were accepted and the display will be shown at Harrisburg in January. This window display is one of the seven chosen from the state for the annual Fair Show and will be shown under the title, "They Are Worth Restoring."

Miss Kathryn Keslar, home economics teacher, and several of the girls will attend the show. Sophomore students of the department served the chicken dinner given Thursday night under the auspices of the local P. T. A.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hensler, of Buffalo, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cody. The latter accompanied them home to spend a few days with her daughter.

Mrs. Earl Stilson who has been spending some time with her mother, Mrs. C. M. Shortt, left Thursday to visit the family of her son, Alden at Columbus, O.

Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Mickle, son, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McIntosh attended a meeting of the Warren County R. L. C. A. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis at Wrightsville Saturday evening.

Miss Margaret Ransom, of Harrisburg, was the weekend guest of her sister, Mrs. Allan H. Frank.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Marchant and daughters Nancy and Ethel, of Buffalo, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cariburg.

Many Sugar Grove people attended the meetings of Gipsy Smith at Jamestown last week.

W. W. Gourley is a patient in the W. C. A. Hospital at Jamestown.

Miss Helen Abbott and Miss Mabel Manross, who are students at Jamestown Business College, are spending the week at home. The school is closed because of the death of the president, Robert J. McKechmie.

Eugene Crandall, of Fredonia, N. Y., was a recent guest of his sister, Mrs. Jennie Washbrodt.

Miss Jane Abbott, technician at Butler Memorial hospital, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Abbott.

Mrs. Nell Hazeltine who was a former resident of Sugar Grove and an aunt of Miss Mary Hamilton, passed away Sunday night at her home at Columbus.

STATE RETIRING BONDS
Harrisburg, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The state on December 1 will retire $2,300,000 of relief and general purpose bonds sold in 1933, and pay another $334,958 into the sinking fund against outstanding highway bonds, Auditor General F. Clair Ross reported today. The transactions will cut Pennsylvania's net bonded indebtedness to $80,109,727.

This represents a per capita debt of about $8.09, Ross said, or 84 cents less than at the first of the year.

MEMORIAL HELD AT MEETING OF LOCAL K. OF C.

At their regular meeting last evening members of Warren Council Knights of Columbus, paid tribute to seven members of the organization who have died during the past year. An impressive program marked the memorial service.

The program opened with the selection, "Lead Kindly Light," by the choir, followed by Our Father and Hail Mary. The choir then sang "Rock of Ages." The roll call of absent members was then called, and an instrumental selection played by Al Lucia.

The principal address of the evening was given by the Rev. Father Arthur Leon, assistant pastor at St. Joseph's church. A vocal solo, "Sweet Saviour, Bless Us Ere We Go," was sung by Robert Daye. This was followed by an eulogy of absent members by Bernard J. Flohr.

The program closed with a choir selection, "Holy God," prayer by the Rev. Father E. J. Jacobs and the singing of "Nearer My God to Thee."

Members who have died during the past year included Victor Nelson, Francis M. Dillon, Carl M. Eysinger, Joseph A. Aaron, S. J. Hayes, John R. Ponsoll and the Rev. Father J. H. Diamond.

Knitting Is Hobby Of Local Selectee At Flying School

Every soldier has his hobby, or at least a large majority, but few of them have taken to knitting as has Daniel Miller, son of Mrs. Belle Miller, 29 South South street, selectee, assigned to the 50th Materiel Squadron at Will Rogers Field, Oklahoma.

To be sure Miller's hobby is unique, but practical, and he has the endorsement of Sergeant Bombie, 8-inch toy fox terrier and full-fledged non-commissioned officer of the 451st Ordnance Company to continue with his knitting. Because Sergeant Bombie benefits each time Private Miller welds the needles, the Warren young man making several sweaters for all occasions in which Sergeant Bombie keeps comfortable through all kinds of weather.

Sergeant Bombie's proudest possession is an olive drab "G.I." sweater with three stripes designating his rank and the Air Corps insignia sewed on the side. He wears this during the day, complying with army regulations in dressing uniformly while on "duty."

The little dog also has a blue and gold wrap which he wears while attending all football games at Will Rogers Field.

Besides knitting sweaters for Sergeant Bombie, Private Miller, who incidentally is a member of the Will Rogers boxing team, has made several wristlets, gloves, and scarfs for himself which may be used to advantage when winter sets in out there soon.

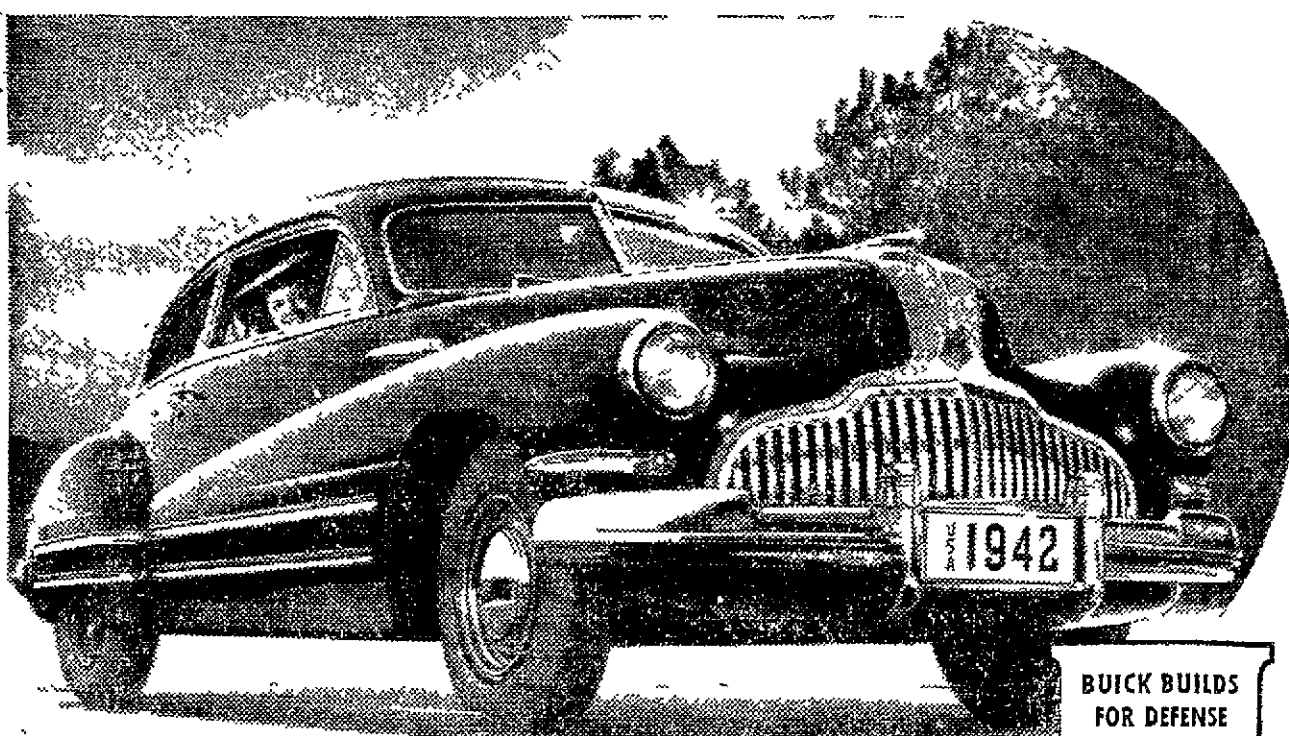

Private Miller learned his knitting from his grandmother, Mrs. John Passinger, 105 South Carver street, this city, four years ago. He's never "lidded" about it at camp, though his hobby is odd,

GO ahead—slide on an inviting seat and press the starter treadle.

Feel better? You bet! Know it or not, your chin's higher already, just picturing yourself traveling into tomorrow in this rugged Buick.

And if it's a long road ahead, who cares? That's a more efficient valve-in-head under your bonnet, isn't it?—and with Compound Carburetion to guarantee top power and top range!

Or suppose the going does get rough—haven't you all-coil springs to float you gently through bad going, and new, broad-rim wheels to ease and steady the ride?

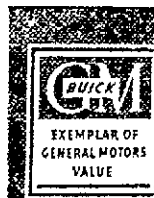

What matter if this car should have to do you two or three times as long as usual—Buick's trim looks are only the outward dress of brawn that's the match for as many years as you want to name.

Things like husky frames, torque-tube drive, extra-strength connecting rods, oil-cushioned bearings that go twice as long under equal loads—such things mean you're all set for tomorrow and tomorrow, ad infinitum.

So head now for your Buick dealer and a Buick try-out. It's "first come, first served," and you wouldn't want to miss out getting yours, now would you?

REAL HELP TO THE COMMUNITY
A communication from the Warren Chamber of Commerce to all members warns business men engaged in installment selling or loaning that they must be registered with the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland on or before December 31st if they wish to continue in business next year.

The same communication informs them that those who from 1937 to 1940 paid the Store and Theatre tax may now file petition for refund for amounts paid, inasmuch as the law was declared unconstitutional. The Chamber secretary announces he has forms to be used in both the above-mentioned matters and that copies may be had by any business man calling at the office. "No one should hesitate because he is not a member of the Chamber," says Mr. Correll, the secretary, "for the Chamber and its facilities of this nature are at the service of all citizens of the community."

Readers of the Times-Mirror are in a position to corroborate that statement. In the past months the Chamber has, indeed, been at the service of the community in all consistent ways, working constantly with large and small industries in many ways, especially in defense matters. It has been continuously and vigorously cooperating with the retailers in efforts to make Warren a popular shopping center, and above all, it advises and aids the citizens at large. Readers recall the secretary's frequent warnings of specific questionable projects that are offered to the public, and some few know, if they are willing to admit it, that they have been actually saved from making contributions or purchases that would have been total losses.

Because it is a real community asset, we are glad to give public commendation to the Warren Chamber of Commerce.

"THEY ALSO SERVE"
A good many years ago the poet Milton wrote that famous line, "They also serve, who only stand and wait." Since that time, homespun philosophy has often irreverently, but practically, changed the ending to "work while they wait."

While this may outrage the feelings of those who resent the distortion of classic poetry, it seems to us that never before in our history has it been so applicable as right now. Day by day we note the ever-increasing threat to our American ideals and our mode of life. In increasing number our young men are called to the colors to prepare themselves to act as our defense, if the need arises. In the meantime, we at home have a job to do. Our government has told us that to survive we must produce those things which are essential to our country's defense. To achieve this objective will call for unceasing effort and personal sacrifice. This will be our share in preserving democracy.

The Navy Department's award of the Bureau of Ordnance Flag and Navy "E" pennant to one of our local industries, for outstanding productive performance, shows that we as a community have already started to do our part.

We know that the employees of this organization will wear the "E" lapel button with the pride of work well done, and that it will serve as a stimulus to even greater accomplishments in the future.

Don't forget, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will start out early tomorrow to aid the Lions Club in collecting apparel and foodstuffs for the Warren Relief Association, and there is very great need for all kinds of clothing and eatables.

It would seem as though the Warren county bears that survived the first day of the season all hiked to the tall timbers.

But one more day remains to do your voting in the Favorite Baby and Trade Expansion contest.

Arrival of snow furnishes prospects of an enjoyable weekend for the youngsters.

And that reminds us, how is the ski slide coming?

EDSON'S WASHINGTON COLUMN
By PETER EDSON
Warren Times-Mirror Washington Correspondent
Washington, Nov. 21.—The way Harold Ickes has been carrying on about Jesse Jones and the contracts made by the Defense Plant Corporation for production of aluminum for defense purposes, you may have gained the impression that Harold thinks Jesse is such a lowdown, contemptible, anti-New Deal rascal that he would be guilty of hauling his eggs to market in a government car during a gasoline shortage.
The truth of the matter is that the simplest way to start a fight in Washington these days is to walk into any group of defense experts—which includes everybody in town—and say "Aluminum!" real quick, like that. The argument will start once, and end up no telling where, for the subject is so broad and so complicated that people will be writing books about it for the next generation.
The scrap goes back to April, 1937, when the government began its anti-trust suit against the Aluminum Company of America, which suit the government lost. The defense angles, date from about November, 1940, when the first of the famous under-estimates of defense requirements for aluminum was made.
The dispute is still on, but the climax of hysteria on the subject came in September when Ickes screeched into the picture with a letter which attempted to give Jones unshirred, public hell for a $52 million contract Jones's Defense Plant Corporation negotiated with the Aluminum Company for construction and operation of one 400 million pound alumina plant in Arkansas, and three alumina plants at Massena, N. Y., Bonneville Dam, Ore., and some place in Arkansas—the combined output of which would be 340 million pounds of aluminum a year. Alumina as you know is the intermediate stuff made out of bauxite clay, from which aluminum is made.
Ickes charged that this was a "damnable contract" because its provisions did not protect the government's interest but instead "strengthened and extended the monopolistic position of the Aluminum Company of America." Jones has not made public his reply to the Ickes letter.
Privately, Mr. Jones states that this is one of the best contracts the government ever made. Instead of extending Alcoa's "monopoly"—a monopoly which a United States court has now declared non-existent—it is Jones's position that this contract finally gives the government power to control national production of aluminum, and thereby to break whatever control Alcoa had on production and price. At the time this contract was made, Jones also negotiated an agreement with Alcoa to cut the price on aluminum ingot 2 cents a pound to save the government and other consumers from $15 million to $25 million a year.
The Jones theory on which this battle-scarred aluminum contract was negotiated is that for normal business purposes the country is now building excess plant capacity. In 1939, the company's total aluminum consumption was 300 million pounds. Defense plans call for a total annual production capacity of five times that amount by 1943.
In this aluminum contract, the company leasing the government-owned plants agrees to keep the plants operating at the same rate which the firm operates its own plants. Thus, if demand for aluminum after the war is only 50 per cent of the defense requirements, both Alcoa's plants and the government plants will be up (Turn To Page Five)

STORIES IN STAMPS
ALTHOUGH the paintings of Peter Paul Rubens, the Flemish painter whose works hang in the principal galleries of Europe and America, are practically priceless, the Belgian government was obliged to issue postage stamps to restore his home in Antwerp.
The stamps, issued in 1939 to honor the great artist, bear pictures of his home, his two wives and children and some of his better known paintings. The stamp above was titled "The Velvet Hat" and is a picture of his second wife, Helena Fourment.
The Flemish school of painting which Rubens exemplified, portrayed powerfully the animation of life and nature. His dogs, horses, men, women, and all his subjects have a vibrant, robust color and interpretation.
Rubens was not restricted to portraits. His paintings include landscapes, subjects of pure fancy, those with religious motifs, and frescoes. In Antwerp churches Rubens composed and directed 39 ceiling panels. All 39, however, were destroyed by fire in 1718.

LABOR PROBLEMS
Bugaboo of defense for past year has been large number of strikes in industries producing vital war products. Sample of how tough it is to cope with these problems is given in solving the following five questions about labor and defense.
1. What are "captive mines"?
2. What were first three plants taken over by U. S. government's armed forces to insure production?
3. What labor office does John L. Lewis hold?
4. How many man-days were lost in defense industries in the six months period from April to September of this year?
5. What is the government agency set up to cope with defense strikes?

SERVICES HELD FOR VICTIM OF AUTO ACCIDENT

Funeral services for Frank J. Dornish, of St. Mary's, mention of whose death was made in Wednesday's Times-Mirror, were held from the St. Mary's church this morning.

Details of the car-truck collision which claimed his life Tuesday evening have been received here. Dornish was enroute to his home in St. Mary's from Renovo when his machine was struck head-on by a ton truck driven by Lynn M. Wykoff, of Sinnemahoning. He suffered a broken neck, fractured leg, broken nose and facial lacerations. Death was almost instantaneous.

Wykoff was placed under arrest on a charge of driving while intoxicated and lodged in jail at Emporium.

Dornish was president of the Elk Candy Company, which he helped organize 49 years ago, and had a wide acquaintance throughout central and northwestern Pennsylvania. Only a few months ago he paid his 48th annual visit to Warren in the interests of the candy company.

One daughter, Stella, and five sons, Norman, Ulrich, Karl, Eugene and Frank, Jr., all of St. Mary's, survive as well as a brother Henry Dornish, of St. Mary's.

George C. Brainard, chairman of the board of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, has announced the election of two directors for terms of three years, beginning January 1, 1942. They are Frank F. Brooks, re-elected as Class A director, and George D. Crabbs, re-elected as a Class B director.

STUDENT PLEDGED
Miss Phyllis Lindell, of Lander, a student at Indiana State Teachers College, has been pledged to Kappa Omicron Phi, honorary sorority. Miss Lindell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lindell, of Lander. She is a sophomore in the home economics department. She is also a member of the Methodist Club and the Leonard Society.

CROSSING AT LUDLOW
The Public Utility Commission yesterday approved an application of supervisors of Hamilton township, McKean county, for construction of a grade crossing in Ludlow to carry a new township road over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks. The road will extend about one-third of a mile from a connection with Water street, Ludlow, to a connection with the Jo Jo trail. The estimated cost is $835,200, made up of $550,000 for highway work and $285,200 for railroad work.

MOTORIST KILLED
A light truck and an automobile collided near North East yesterday, killing a North East man and his wife and injuring three others. William Rose, 55, and his wife, 42, were killed. Frank Goddard, 74, of North East, riding in the truck with the Roses, suffered serious head lacerations and a fractured jaw. Passengers in the car who were hurt were Arthur Leroy Fields, 50, of Buffalo, N. Y., severe facial and scalp injuries, and Charles Jones, 51, of Oil City, probable fractures of the nose, collarbone and ribs.

START WORK ON REPORT
White Hill, Pa., Nov. 21.—(P)—A committee investigating the program of the White Hill Industrial School concluded its questioning of guards, officials, present and former inmates, and began work today on a report to Governor James.

The inquiry was asked by Superintendent Henry C. Bell, who objected to "certain editorials and news articles" after guards fatally wounded one of four boys attempting escape.

all the business. If demand should fall to 40 per cent of capacity, or below, the lease may be canceled, but there is nothing to prevent the government from leasing its plants to other operators, staying in the aluminum business as a competitor to Alcoa and selling government aluminum at any price it chooses to break a possible Alcoa price rise.

While the contract is in force, Alcoa is to act as sales agent for the government, 85 per cent of the profits going to the Defense Plant Corporation, acting for the government, 15 per cent to Alcoa.

Takes himself has estimated this might yield the government a profit of $3,525,000 from the op-plants, then the government can force Alcoa to cut its price under threat of cancellation of the lease.

DRESS HAS SLIMMING
BODICE
By ANNE ADAMS

Don't dress your age... wear young frock calculated to slim you down! That's the advice of the Adams to more mature women, and she offers Pattern 4874, an example. The center bodice panel dips below the waistline double points for a smooth-fitting basque effect. This panel is emphasized by a tiny w of buttons and the embroidered flower transfer motif; or by aking both the panels and the sh in back of a contrasting fabric. Lace edging is effective too; coming fullness over the bust released by twin darts on either shoulder and gathers at the ist. There are also darts on e short sleeves. The simple, aceful skirt makes for easy wing; directions in the Sewing structur include those for the broderie motif.

60th Anniversary of Missionary Group
West Side Couple Is At Grace Methodist
To Be Observed Sat. Church Has Meeting

Tomorrow will mark the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Howell, 30 Walnut street. There will be no special observance of the occasion, due to the fact that Mr. Howell is a patient in the Warren General Hospital, recovering from an operation to which he submitted on Wednesday.

Walter J. Howell and Sarah Spangler were united in marriage November 22, 1881, by the Rev. P. Doerr, who was pastor of the First Lutheran church. They have since resided on the west side of Warren, where they have enjoyed the friendship and esteem of all with whom they have come in contact. Mr. and Mrs. Howell have three daughters: Mrs. Octavia Richards, of Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. Elizabeth Holcomb, Parkersburg, W. Va.; and Mrs. Edith McDonough, of Warren. There are five grandchildren and one great grandchild. The Times-Mirror joins in extending felicitations to the couple on their anniversary, with a hope that Mr. Howell will recover speedily from his illness and soon be returned to his home.

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Grace Methodist church held its regular meeting in the social rooms of the church Thursday evening. Mrs. Vada Kyler was leader for the devotional service. A brief memorial service was held for Mrs. Earl Cobb, recently deceased member of the unit. Mrs. Robert Young read a poem and the group sang two hymns, with Margaret Randall playing autoharp accompaniment. A ladies' quartet, composed of Mrs. Hildur Jacobson, Mrs. Ruth Lindquist, Mrs. Margaret Drivas and Miss Maines, sang two selections, with accompaniments played by Miss Grace Jolley.

Miss Lottie Carnahan presented some urgent needs of missionaries, for whom an offering was received later in the service.

The speaker of the evening was Mrs. Delbert Jolley, of Ripley, N. Y., who gave a talk on The Morgan Memorial and Goodwill Industries. Mrs. Jolley spent some time in service at this institution in Boston and gave a splendid talk on the problems and joys of this fine organization.

An informal social hour followed and a luncheon was served by the following committee: Mrs. Paul Olson, Mrs. Flora MacDowell, Mrs. Walter Mathier, Mrs. Myra Strickland, Mrs. Ralph Armstrong, Mrs. Mary Hildum, Mrs. Mary Huff, Mrs. Paul Elvinger, Mrs. W. J. Summerville, Mrs. Charles Nelson, Mrs. William Erickson, Mrs. William Brenton, Mrs. Ellen Courtney, Mrs. John Cole and Miss Grace Gregerson.

ACCIDENT AT TIONA

Private E. A. Reeder, of the Pennsylvania Motor Police, investigated an accident which occurred at Tiona about 11:50 o'clock last evening involving cars operated by Donald J. Perdue, of New Castle, and Lawrence Williams, of Mt. Jewett. It is reported that Perdue had stopped his car, a Buick sedan, on the highway and Williams, driving a 1936 Nash sedan toward Warren, did not see the parked machine in time to stop and ran into the rear of the Buick. Dale Cole, 18, of New Castle, who was sleeping in the back seat of Perdue's car, was knocked to the floor. Although he was admitted to the Warren General Hospital, it was found that he was not injured seriously and was discharged this morning. Damage was estimated to have been about $700.

Pacific Picture: A Dark One for Japan

This map shows some of the reasons why Japan's Kurosu and Nomura have conferred long and earnestly with President Roosevelt and Cordell Hull. Prospect of war in the Pacific looks bad for militant Japan in the above pattern. Entirely encircled by probable enemies, she would be bottled up in one of history's most potent blockades. Action might begin on land, with a Japanese attack on Thailand, on British Burma or on China's lifeline, the Burma Road, as shown on insert map. Major decision, however, would likely involve fleets at sea and in the air.

The state constitution to subjects outlined by the governor in proclaiming the extra term. James declined to list the topics which members have been suggesting by mail for weeks, asserting, "the puns are confused enough."

James said he was waiting for the special legislative committee of five senators and five representatives to adopt a reapportionment plan before issuing the call, but reiterated he would not ask the assembly to return unless there was assurance that a bill could be passed.

The committee, appointed to carry on attempts at adopting a plan, reached a stalemate this week and sent the five proposals under consideration to every member of the legislature for a poll of reaction.

row's UMW policy committee meeting formally rejects the latest formula he has advanced for ending the strikes. Such action by the committee was regarded as a foregone conclusion, because John L. Lewis, UMW's president, already has turned down the proposal on his own behalf.

The legislation which the senate subcommittee converted to consider would empower the government to take over industries vital to defense whenever production was threatened by a strike or labor disturbance or other cause.

Connally's bill also would freeze the status of closed or open shops in plants thus seized, prohibit union jurisdictional disputes and provide for the establishment of a wage adjustment board.

Prosperity Again in Prospect For "City Without Depression"

Meadville, Pa., Nov. 21.—(P)—

Prosperity was again in prospect today for this northwestern Pennsylvania community of 25,000 which prides itself as "the city without a depression" but which feared for a time it might suffer an economic setback because of defense priorities.

What caused optimism to glow once more for Meadville folk was the War Department's recent announcement a big TNT plant will be built near here. An estimated 10,000 men will be needed to build the plant, and once it is up, probably 2,000 men and women will be required as full-time employees.

The contract has not been let, but estimates of the cost range from $10,000,000 to $40,000,000. The announcement gave a rosy tinge to an outlook that a few months ago was gloomy. Meadville's No. 1 industry, Talon, Inc., had just laid off 800 of its 3,000 employees and it was feared further curtailment might be necessary. The reason was defense priorities cut down the supply of metal it uses to manufacture slide fasteners (zippers).

It was the development of the slide fastener business and that of another large industry, the rayon production of the American Viscose Corporation plant (employing 2,500) in the past decade which saved Meadville from the depression felt elsewhere in that period.

The War Department had picked another locale for the powder plant but changed it to Meadville because of the "distressed industrial condition" which faced the city.

The department is already taking out options on 200 farms it will buy in the 25-square-mile plant site. The farmers are looking about for other farms in this region—and consequently a boom is already evidenced by a boost of 25 per cent in some farm prices.

The Farm Security Administration said it would assist the farmers financially, where necessary, and help them find new farms and transport to them their dairy cows, large stores of feed and equipment.

fame, fortune and future happiness. Despite the fact that dynasties centuries old are falling, the Kingdom of Babyhood is safer today than ever before, as has been proved conclusively by this election.

This is one election in which it is not offensive to vote more than one time. "Repeat" votes have kept the ballot box groaning with their burden of coupons obtained upon cash purchases and upon payment of accounts. The slogan of the day seems to be "Vote Early and Often." Supporters of various baby nominees have called to marshal their forces for a grand finale which in each case is planned to bring the baby acclaim a child of this community has never been offered. It's their race and they are running a fast course in record time.

Only these communities' babies could have such a race. The Warren Times-Mirror, the co-operating merchants and all concerned hope the baby best equipped for the exceptional honors wins the coveted title of "Favorite," the huge loving cup and the substantial monetary consideration that accompanies it. It's up to you—the people of Warren and vicinity, to say.

Because of the many cash prizes offered, together with the earnest desire to have favorites finish "out front," and among those thirty to be featured in the newspaper Tuesday as the winners, many close finishes for the prizes are predicted. The people of these communities have the deciding vote and the babies beam with happy anticipation to receiving it.

Parents are asked to come to the election headquarters, Beckley Building, Monday afternoon, Nov. 24, for their baby's prize.

Knox Speaks At the Launching of Battleship

ed our resolve that our side shall win this struggle which shakes the world.

"No one can say when the actions of our avowed enemies may drag us into complete belligerency, but should that day come the burden upon our navy will be the greatest in our history. And the struggle which would follow, this great ship here would be a tower of strength to our battle line."

"It is no accident that the Indiana is on the launching ways six months ahead of schedule," he said. "When our industry and labor are united, there is nothing on earth can stop them."

"As she slides down the ways, the Indiana takes with her the hopes and prayers of 130 million Americans. May she have a long and successful career. May she do her duty bravely and well. Today she is a symbol of our will to survive in a world at war. May the day come when she will ride the seas as the symbol of a peace regained."

The election was made a special order of the convention for 2 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) today. Delegates predicted freely that an unanimous tide of sentiment for Murray also would sweep into office all other incumbents whose terms are expiring. Six vice presidents and the secretary treasurer, James B. Carey of Washington, are up for reelection.

Several unannounced candidates for Carey's job or for one of the vice presidencies folded their invisible banners after steering committees had settled major issues involving the forces of Murray, Lewis and Sidney Hillman, OPM associate director and president-on-leave of the powerful Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

The Lewis faction—headed in the absence of the miners' president by his brother, A. O. (Denny) Lewis and his daughter, Miss Kathryn Lewis—refrained from any contest on the convention floor and received two important concessions.

First, the convention voted to support John L. Lewis and his miners in their demands for a union shop in the captive mines state.

Second, in a compromise vote the convention denounced the OPM yesterday. However, it was the first vote of the sessions that failed to attain unanimity as the delegates passed a resolution attacking the OPM and "its responsible officials" for their action in turning down the bid of the Currier Lumber Company of Detroit on a defense housing project.

The resolution contended that the OPM officials had given AFL unions "an actual monopoly" on all government construction work, and this was termed "a vicious example of discrimination against the United Construction Workers Organizing Committee," which is headed by A. D. Lewis.

When the issue first came before the convention, A. D. Lewis demanded a resolution recommending removal of Hillman from his federal post, or at least a vote censuring him directly on the grounds that he advised against awarding the housing contract to the Currier Company.

tion of special lapel buttons to the employees whose work has made possible the granting of the award by the Navy Department.

Because of the fact that it is one of the smaller firms in the country engaged in work for the U. S. Navy, the award is regarded by officials of the company as a signal honor.

The award is given only to those firms which are keeping up to or exceeding the standard of production set up by the Navy Department.

In addition to those who already have been mentioned, National Forge and Ordnance officials said today that guests will include Judge D. U. Arrind and State Senator L. E. Chapman of Warren; Dr. W. H. Shortt, of Youngsville, company physician; A. P. Reed and F. W. Ries, Jr., of Pittsburgh, company directors.

VETERAN MILL
EMPLOYEE HURT
AT SHEFFIELD

Sheffield, Nov. 21—Frank C. Peterson, 70, veteran Central Pennsylvania Lumber Company employee, is a patient in the Kane Community Hospital with injuries he received when he fell off a dock in the lumber yard at the mill here yesterday morning while making his round as watchman.

Because of his bruised and swollen condition, the extent of the watchman's injuries were not immediately determinable and wouldn't be for several hours at least, the hospital reported. Preliminary but therefore inconclusive X-rays failed to reveal any fractures, the report from the hospital revealed.

The fall which hospitalized Mr. Peterson occurred in the hemlock yard sometime between 5:30 and 6 a. m., and was the result of the watchman losing his balance as he attempted to get around a truckload of lumber on the dock, Leonard Henry, company safety director, said.

Peterson, who fell a distance of about 15 feet, was not found until about an hour and a half after he suffered the fall. Badly dazed and moaning he was found helpless on the ground near dock 12, shortly before 7 a. m. by Yard Foreman Clyde Rogers, who, on his way to work, was attracted by the injured man's groans, the company safety director said.

Henry reported that the watchman said the mishap occurred on No. 5 dock, but the safety director said that inasmuch as there was no truckload of lumber on that dock he was inclined to believe that it must have been dock 12. In his effort to reach help, Peterson had dragged himself clear across the lumberyard to the spot where he was eventually found, one of the remotest sections of the huge storage area.

Mr. Peterson, who during his lengthy period of service with the lumber company has worked about the mill in various capacities, was serving his first trick as a watchman when the mishap befell him. He had reported to work at 1:30 a. m., accompanied Watchman Clair Shope on the latter's last trip around the plant, and then at 2:30 had relieved Shope as watchman.

Peterson was the fourth man injured at the lumber yard in two days. The preceding afternoon, Wednesday, three yard employees were hurt, none seriously, when a dock in the hardwood yards gave way beneath them and a truckload of lumber, hurtling all to the ground.

John Buddio, 20, suffered a fractured collarbone; Oscar Stensrud, 25, suffered a sprained right ankle, lacerations and contusions of the fingers of the right hand and lacerations and contusions of both legs. Lawrence Benson, 25, escaped with minor bruises.

PATROL TO WASHINGTON

The Lincoln School Mothers' Club, meeting Wednesday afternoon in the school, voted unanimously to arrange and promote for the Lincoln Patrol a trip to Washington.

Initial plans for raising funds for which to finance the trip, which will take place next May, were formulated by the school mothers.

The session was conducted by Mrs. Emil Stanat, president of the club, and featured a talk by Rev. Russell. The student program was presented by Grace Z.

A committee, of which Mrs. Oscar Dalton was chairman, served refreshments after conclusion of the business session and program.

Dudley Sparks Virginia to Victory Over North Carolina

'Bud' Schwenk Sets New Pass Record as Team Triumphs in One of Turkey Day Games

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR
New York, Nov. 21.—(P)—College football, coming in the doses this week because of the first of the Thanksgiving holidays, got through the appetizers yesterday but the main course comes tomorrow.

Two individual performances yesterday overshadowed anything presented in the way of team achievements on the slim holiday card for the states which called it Turkey Day.

At Chapel Hill, N. C., Bill Dudley slammed the door on a brilliant collegiate career by leading Virginia to a 26-7 victory over North Carolina.

Dudley, backfield ace of the Cavaliers, made his final appearance in his best. He scored three touchdowns, two on long runs, passed to the fourth and kicked all four extra points.

DINNER FOR EDGAR
Pittsburgh, Nov. 21.—(P)—A testimonial dinner will be held here Dec. 10 for Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones, Pitt football star. Welsh societies will sponsor the event for the Scranton boy of Welsh extraction.

When Bill left the game with two minutes to play, his mates rushed off the bench and carried him on their shoulders to the sidelines while 22,000 fans, most of them backing the other team, shook the stadium with their applause.

The other solo stunt was engineered by Wilson (Bud) Schwenk, the passing star from Washington University at St. Louis, who pitched his team to a 26-7 triumph over Missouri Mines and himself into football's hall of fame.

Schwenk went into the game needing only three completions to break the national record of 93 successful passes in one season.

SPORTSCAPERS

Bill Lundahl, former cage star for the Warren High school Dragons, now attending Grove City college, has made the varsity basketball team. The Wolverine athletic program is one of many that has discarded the freshman rule, mainly because of size and the draft program. Lundahl played one season of reserve basketball, the latter half of which he saw quite a bit of varsity action, and then was on the starting five during the first semester of the 1939-40 campaign. Bill is another addition to a lengthening string of former Dragon athletes now making names for themselves in various colleges.

Looking over the past football season, and picking out some of the better parts of our mental notes, we'd say Thiel College was the best grid outfit we saw. Next to them, it would be the Ohio professionals, but Thiel really had the stuff to knock over the Ohio professionals, even though the collegians' running of their backs and the timely, accurate blocks made by the interference, gave the Lutheran seminary at Greenville their first undefeated season in the 40-year history of the grid sport at that school. Beatman, left tackle, and Ed Kochis, right end, looked good enough to this scribe to gain all-state honors. Beatman was a demon at flagging down an opposing safety man trying to return punts, stood out offensively, and their was seldom a hole in his side of the line when Thiel was forced to defend. Kochis, biggest man on the line, used his height to hook passes and prove an all-round asset to the team.

In reminiscing the Dragon games, Oil City was probably the weakest foe, and we'd say Erie Academy was the toughest. But while the Oilers didn't show much this fall, it was because they had a long way to go to perfection, and with most of the team back next year, in fact 12 lettermen, it may be a different story when the two Blue and White clubs mix in 1941. Many looked at Jamestown and Erie as the best scholastic team in the Dragon game. The Moonmen were simply "on," and the Leidighen fell down. Jamestown men were simply "on," and the Leidighen fell down. Jamestown men were simply "on," and the Leidighen fell down. Jamestown men were simply "on," and the Leidighen fell down.

A game report of part of northwestern Pennsylvania from Kane after the opening day of bear season told about a record kill, but recorded the largest bear reported at 200 pounds. Before noon we had seen at least three that topped the weight by wide margins, and to date we've counted about seven. Maybe the bears aren't so big up on the hilltop. Anyway, Don Finley sported a couple in front of his on the hilltop. And up at the A & P Super Market another one, bigger than any we'd previously seen, was dangling at the end of a good, husky piece of hemp. The amazing success experienced by hunters in their quest for the first big game of the season is attributed to the fact that warm weather caused more bears to still be roving about, instead of hibernating at this time of year.

Odds 'n Ends . . . Bowling is like life to some regulars . . . They never know what's coming next . . . Announcement is expected any time now from the Dragons as to who will be this year's cage manager . . . Dr. Irving P. Krick of the California Institute of Technology comes up with the first forecast on the kind of day to expect for the Rose Bowl game New Year's Day, and the good doctor says the sun will shine with the temperature about 76 degrees . . . Thanks, doc, now if someone will only tell us who the gladiators will be, this department will be able to digest our Thanksgiving dinner with more ease . . . However, Krick forecast the weather last year on Dec. 10 . . . and he was right . . . It's no secret that Fordham discarded all records and reminders of their football rivalry with Pittsburgh after the 13-0 upset at the Smoky City . . . Looks from here as if it's Fordham's policy to Ram things like that in the waste basket . . . And after that pun we're sure you want no more today . . .

SHEFFIELD HIGH CAGERS TO OPEN DECEMBER 6TH

Sheffield, Nov. 21.—Wolverine basketball squad hopefuls have been working out daily the past several school days under the approving eye of Coach Joe Massa, who is beginning his first term as basketball mentor here.

Coach Massa, eminently successful in coaching the sport at Kinzua for the past four years, plans to carry 20 players on the A and B squads combined. About forty youths had been trying out for the intended 20 places, but Wednesday evening 15 of the aspirants were eliminated from further consideration when Massa made his first reduction in the squad. A further reduction of four or five will be made during the course of the next week or so.

The veteran material available to the new coach includes Lettermen Mike Steffan and Jimmy Campasino, who recently were elected co-captains of the varsity, and Joe Yusko and Bob Gustafson. Other experienced players on hand include Nick Otto, "Foots" Fitzgerald, Marv Schmidlen, Jerry Sorvelli, Don Lyle, Lowell Blake and Sherwood Henry.

A doubleheader on December 6 with Kinzua and Saegertown teams providing the opposition, will open the season for the Orange and Black James City will play here on December 12 and will be followed here on January 2, providing present efforts to arrange a game for that date are successful, by the Wolverines' third opponent of the campaign. Then on Tuesday, January 6, the locals begin their campaign in the North League, meeting the Warren Dragons on Beatty court in Warren.

Last Night's Bouts

Receive Five Entries In "Y" Class A Loop

Five entries in the class A basketball league were received at the Y. M. C. A. last night during the organization meeting, and the class B loop came through with four teams, with possibly one or two other quintets expected in either or both circuits.

Ed Hasler, who will be behind the leagues again this winter, issued another invitation to any other basketball teams in the community who couldn't be represented last night but who would like to play in either of the two circles.

Joe Waples discussed the new cage rulings, especially rule changes, explaining them to the managers so that they will have a general knowledge of the regulations before the season starts.

Teams in the class A league entered so far are: Rocks, Pattersons, Phalanx, Merchants, O'Connors. In the class B, the entries are: New Process, White Horses, All-Stars, Y Colts.

The leagues plan to get under way December first.

Financial Aid Asked for College Athletes

Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 21.—(P)—Dickinson College officials today studied a demand from determined students for athletic scholarships so that their college "may take its rightful place among colleges of her own class."

The petition by 450 students was presented to President Fred E. Corson on the eve of Dickinson's annual big game with Gettysburg, an engagement which the Red Devils haven't won in five years.

The move was started by the Dickinsonian, student publication which earlier in the week blamed the school's fading gridiron glory on a college policy against financial aid to athletes.

Almost simultaneously with the petition came the announced resignation of Raphael S. Hays, vice-president of the board of trustees, as a member of the athletic board of control. Hays gave ill-health as the reason for quitting. It was reported his resignation had not been accepted.

Some condiments of foreign origin will be scarce and more costly this Thanksgiving, according to the Department of Commerce.

Sports Round-up

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 21.—(The Special News Service)—Frank Reagan, who hung up his shoulder pads "for good" when he left the pro Giants to join the Marines, will get another chance to run tomorrow when the Quantico team plays the Baltimore Firemen. . . . Marine officials finally decided Frank still is rated as an enlisted man until he gets his commission and therefore is eligible to play. . . . Frankie Frisch writes Pittsburgh pals that he hasn't discussed any deals for Arky Vaughan even though the papers have been trading him ever since the season ended. . . . Still the winter meetings aren't over. . . . Welterweight Harry Wootley, who traveled from Alliance, Ohio, to New Orleans to become a headliner, will try to show the home fans he's anything but weakly when he fights Fritz Zivic on Ed Bang's Cleveland News Christmas fund card. . . . A Yale grad claims Dean William (how pure we are!) De Vane ought to be made to play 60 minutes against Harvard's Chub Peabody before he's allowed to pop off about strictly amateur football.

They Weren't Fishing

Bill Dean of Langdon, Mo., relating this hunting yarn: Glenn D. Bluff of Anderson, Mo., went bird hunting on Armistice Day and stepped right into the middle of a coyote. One bird rose so close that Glenn swung his gun like Joe DiMaggio's bat and dropped it, then wheeled and fired to get another. . . . And to prove it wasn't one of those hunter's dreams, Bill reports a witness was R. C. Eddings, a minister.

Today's Guest Star

Walter Stewart, Memphis commercial appeal: "The professional golfers association issued a thrilling bulletin the other day—Admitted that Walter Hagen has walked 100,000 miles in 30 years of tournament golf. Shucks, we've played a lot less than 30 years and hooped a lot further. You see, the Haig walked straight down the fairway—not zigzag."

Hardwood Highlights

Chuck Hyatt, who always was this corner's idea of tops among basketball players, says Hank Luisetti is the greatest that ever lived. "You hate to admit a fellow is that much better than you are, but he is," says Chuck, who explains that Luisetti is just "one of those naturals that come along" like Babe Ruth, Bobby Jones or Jack Dempsey. . . . Hyatt is plumb scared that his basketballers and the folks back home in Earlsville, Ohio, will find out that he has been spending his spare time in New York taking rhumba lessons—and not to learn any fancy steps to use on the court.

Overlin, Hostak in 10-Rounder Tonight

New York, Nov. 21.—(P)—Ker Overlin, of Washington, D. C., and Al Hostak, of Seattle, a pair of former middleweight champs square off tonight at Madison Square Garden to go 10 rounds or less in a light heavyweight scrap.

Since the two fighters no longer are able to get down to the middle-weight poundage, both are eyeing the light heavyweight crown worn by Gus Lesnevich.

Hostak, formerly regarded a king of the 160-pounders by the N. B. A., will be making his first eastern appearance. His record lists 114 fights, most of which he won by knockouts.

We can't understand it. The Times Square bowls its nicest game in a very long time, split with the tough A & P Super Market, but falls into the cellar of the Commercial League. That's one on the tough side.

However, the 3-G Oils moved into the wine cellar with the Bradford Penns, awaiting another good night for the Times Square boys so they can probably take command of the ground floor.

The Bradford Penns, incidentally, are much better than last night would relate. This quaint look over where the Sherwood Refinery crew left off, and they left off where a fall couldn't hurt them because they weren't exactly on the top floor.

The Penns proceeded to take four from the 3-G Oils last night, move out of the cellar, and should wind up around the middle of the heap in the first half if they keep going. Next half, though, look out.

Times-Mirror keggers took four at the Elks last night, which didn't make them mad, and of note to keggers at the club was the return of Ed Lowrey to the lineup and Bob Johnson's 506 for the evening. Johnson had so many buns on that count last night he wouldn't have been eating next (Turn To Page Eleven)

EMPLOYMENT IN STATE HITS NEW HIGH IN AUGUST

With defense industry booming, a total of 3,638,000 persons — a new high — were employed in Pennsylvania on September 1, according to Lewis G. Hines, state secretary of labor and industry. The number was 23,000 more than in August and 13 per cent above the total on payrolls September 1, 1940.

Hines said shortage of materials, however, may bring on "severe employment dislocations" and said previous gains showed a tendency to level off.

The secretary said advance surveys of anticipated labor lay-offs were being made in preparation for the dislocations and to "minimize their effect as much as possible."

"This data is utilized by the contract distribution service to determine the necessity for converting available plants to defense production, where feasible, to absorb workers," Hines said.

Leading in the August employment gains was the manufacturing classification, with a rise of 16,000. Non-manufacturing lines gained 9,000 workers.

Hines attributed the decline in textile jobs to freezing of raw silk supplies.

"The operation of priorities in this field is expected to cause further extensive dislocations in the silk processing industry during the remainder of the year," he said.

week had he missed. Another mark for the composing room.

And the Times-Mirror-Arcade vs. Elks rivalry is definitely set to get started this season Sunday afternoon at the Elks club at 3 p. m. All bowlers on both teams are asked to note the time, place reason — and don't forget to bring your bowling balls.

The day is fast approaching when ladies will possess nearly as many top-notchers as do the men. No reason why they can't other than the fact that bowling still is in the pioneer stages in regard to the fairer sex.

Which reminds us that the ladies invade the Arcade drives again this evening with some good matches on deck at nine judging by last night's scores—Mrs. Dahler, 168; Mrs. Coyle, 179; Vickie Nelson, 188; Mrs. Lauffenberger, 175 and 165—a few new marks may be set up.

There is only one difference between the Bradford Penns and the 3-G scuttle-balls. The Penns have no shirts and neat bowlers. The oilmen have nifty shirts but... no, we won't say it.

THE PHONE BOOTH MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

Assey Mayo is the famous Cape Cod detective, but tonight he is merely helping Jennie deliver some clams her husband dug. Assey had a lot of trouble reaching the phone booth, and when he and Jennie finally got there, the place was deserted. At least there was no living person around—but when Jennie looked in the phone booth there was a corpse sitting on the little chair.

Chapter Four Nickel In Her Hand

JENNIE, hold that candelabra thing high, an' hold it straight, an' don't sob at this, it's the strangest business I ever—
"It's terrible, Assey," Jennie said, "Look, there's a stain on the back of her coat, see it? Somebody shot her, Assey!"
"Uh-huh, I know it. Shot her in the back. An' someone's trod on her glasses. The rim's all bent. But, Jennie, I still—"
"There's a nickel in her right hand," Jennie interrupted. "She was going to phone, an' someone come in here an' killed her. That's why there isn't anybody here! Everyone's run away!"
The furrow between Assey's eyes deepened.
"Jennie, put that candle thing on the table, an' bring the rest of the candles over here. This is just plain strange. Did you see that little sedan outside anywhere when we came? I don't remember it."

"My mind wasn't on cars when we came here," Jennie returned. "My mind was on clams. I wouldn't have noticed a dozen cars. I s'pose hers is parked around toward the back somewhere. It must be."
Assey turned around and stood framed in the doorway as Jennie brought over a third candelabrum and set it on the table.
"Know what I think?" he said. "I think this must be that woman's twin. I don't think this is the same woman we seen. I'm almost positive sure it can't be her, Jennie."

"That so?" Jennie said. "Well, you take a look at the initials on that bag, O.E.B. The woman at the red lights had initials on her pocketbook with the white stitching, an' they was O.E.B., too. I near twisted my neck out of joint tryin' to see what they was without gettin' rained on. I thought of twins right away when I opened that closet door, but, when I seen them initials on that bag, I knew it was the same one."

Assey leaned against the door jamb and looked again at the slumped figure in the closet, and tried to conjure up a mental picture of the slight figure under the umbrella. He could remember her hair, wavy and brown, a little breathless, but low and firm and as determined as Jennie's had been.

He remembered what she said to the soldier with the red lantern when she urged him to let her pass the four-wheel interview section. It was a condensed, logical appeal with no touch of emotionalism like Jennie's frenzied exhortations about the imperative need for delivering her husband's clams.

And Assey could remember the rain pouring off her umbrella in a series of little jetting streams, and her quick impulsive gesture as she extended her umbrella toward Jennie.

Vaguely, he remembered her tweed coat. But other than the fact that she seemed awfully nice, Assey could recall nothing personal about her at all.

But women noticed things, personal things, about other women, and Jennie's power of observing insignificant detail was nothing short of phenomenal. Jennie could tell uncannily what dress a member of the sewing circle wore to a meeting the week before Christmas. She could remember, item by item, the menus of dinners she had eaten twenty years ago, just now everything would, if he had any sense, stay away from the place.

He was so busy thinking about the Inn, the prowler, and the woman in the telephone booth that it didn't dawn on Assey for some time that in spite of his being constantly in motion, he didn't appear to be reaching the Inn.

He stopped and looked around. There were no lights to be seen anywhere. No houses, not even a tree, loomed in the rain.

Assey sighed. It had been many years since he'd been forced to use a compass on Cape Cod, but he had to admit the need of one now. He was lost.
He fished around in his breast pocket for a full minute before he remembered that he wasn't wearing his everyday clothes or carrying his big old-fashioned watch with the compass face. "Oh, well," Assey murmured wearily, and turned to the right. Quisset was a small village, but it wasn't so small that you could lose touch with it entirely in such a brief tramp.

He walked on, stepped through a small brook, and then, lo and behold, he saw someone duck nimbly behind a pine tree.
He was just gathering himself together to lunge forward and grab the man when the man lunged first and grabbed Assey.

"I don't mean that I mean outside. Listen. Someone's out there on those front steps! Don't twist around an' look, just you listen!"
Assey listened.

"I can't hear a thing, Jennie," he said at last. "I think it's just your imagination. An' I'll grant you," he added, "that this is enough to set anyone's imagination leaping around in circles. I still—"

From the steps outside there came a thud and a rattle, and then smaller rattles, and finally a good-sized bang.

"There was someone!" Jennie said. "He's knocked over a bucket of clams!"

Assey paced for the door. There was no one in sight, but he could hear the sound of footsteps bounding around the side of the Inn.

Disregarding Jennie's plaintive protests that she didn't want to be left alone in that place, Assey promptly set off in pursuit.

He followed the sound of the footsteps as they crunched along the Inn's heavily gravelled driveway, and swung off to the right when they did. For a moment the noise of the rain and the wind drowned them out, but then he heard crackling sounds, as if someone had plunged into a pile of branches, so he set off again.

That was just what had happened, he told himself as he ran toward the continued snapping. A fellow had slipped into a brush pile, and now he was fumbling his way through.

Assey lengthened his stride, and almost at once fell headlong into a puddle.

Picking himself up, he shook water off his coat, brushed the mud from his chin, and listened.

From somewhere behind him, a Quisset church bell began to peal out urgently, completely drowning out any other possible sounds.

Assey wiped his face with a muddy handkerchief and waited for the bell to stop. Then he realized that the bell was signaling four long peals and two short ones. That meant that the Quisset Fire Department, unable to use its regular siren with the electric current off, was utilizing the church bell to call its members and tell them where the blaze was.

And, Assey thought, if he knew anything about fire departments, that bell would be rung until every last man jack in the department had phoned in that he was on the way.

Footsteps
With a shrug, Assey turned back toward the Inn. It was pretty much of a wild-goose chase anyway, this was, and he shouldn't have left Jennie there all alone. At least he should have waited long enough to tell her to phone Hanson of the state police and report this business.

The bell finally stopped, as he strode along, and at once his head felt very near and moving toward him.

Swinging around, Assey dashed for the person, who numbly ducked and raced away.

And again the church bell started ringing, a carefree, careless peal, which Assey diagnosed either as Quisset's "All Out" or its "False Alarm" signal. There was no doubt in any event, but what the fire department meant everyone within a radius of ten miles to know that the situation was under control.

He was glad for Quisset, but under the circumstances he couldn't have followed the sound of scissors-grinder with a bell.

"Huh," Assey said aloud, and marched for the Inn.

For his part, he couldn't imagine why anyone should be sneaking around the front door of the Whale Inn, anyway. A person belonged there would have entered about the preliminary lurking. Conversely a person who didn't belong there, and had designs on the silver, say, would hardly reconnoiter around the front door. And, finally, anyone involved with the shooting of the who an in the telephone booth would, if he had any sense, stay away from the place.

He was so busy thinking about the Inn, the prowler, and the woman in the telephone booth that it didn't dawn on Assey for some time that in spite of his being constantly in motion, he didn't appear to be reaching the Inn.

He stopped and looked around. There were no lights to be seen anywhere. No houses, not even a tree, loomed in the rain.

Assey sighed. It had been many years since he'd been forced to use a compass on Cape Cod, but he had to admit the need of one now. He was lost.

He fished around in his breast pocket for a full minute before he remembered that he wasn't wearing his everyday clothes or carrying his big old-fashioned watch with the compass face.

"Oh, well," Assey murmured wearily, and turned to the right. Quisset was a small village, but it wasn't so small that you could lose touch with it entirely in such a brief tramp.

He walked on, stepped through a small brook, and then, lo and behold, he saw someone duck nimbly behind a pine tree.

He was just gathering himself together to lunge forward and grab the man when the man lunged first and grabbed Assey.

Assey was startled, but he didn't let go. He was just gathering himself together to lunge forward and grab the man when the man lunged first and grabbed Assey.

Assey was startled, but he didn't let go. He was just gathering himself together to lunge forward and grab the man when the man lunged first and grabbed Assey.

British Spearheads

Knifing Into Siege Lines Around Tobruk
British offensive were "progressing" and that German bombers "rotated concentrations of British tanks and lorries" on the Egyptian frontier.

As the extraordinary session of the Japanese diet closed in Tokyo, having ratified the government's program of new military expenditures and new taxes, a new controversy was reported developing over Japan's expansion in French Indo-China.

France was said to have protested to Tokyo that the Japanese were overstepping the agreements which gave them the right to bases in France's Asian colony.

According to French informants, for one thing, the 350 political and economic experts in the retinue of Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japan's new ambassador to India, China, virtually a government to administer a government there.

Advices from the colony indicated, however, that there still was not sufficient Japanese strength in the colony for any large-scale operations against either China or Thailand.

Much Shooting Is Reported at Captive Mines

was described as seriously hurt. He was hit by pistol and rifle bullets and buckshot. Bullets zipped from both sides of the mine road after the first bullet was fired from a little hill. As reinforcements of pickets arrived, their automobiles were flagged down and the drivers were ordered to house their lights.

Shouts broke the quiet between the sporadic outbursts of firing. Lights at the mine, gleaming brightly when the hooting started, were turned out. Rocks were hurled from the hillsides, striking some of the cars.

The Edenborn mine is one of 34 captive mines in western Pennsylvania producing coal for the big steel companies. The H. C. Frick Coke Company, a subsidiary of the U. S. Steel Corporation, operates nearly a score of the mines in Fayette county and has claimed operations have been going on at 25 per cent of normal since the strike was called five days ago.

Whereas the company claims about 3400 men are still working in the Fayette mines, the union places the figure at about 300. From 25,000 to 28,000 captive pit miners in western Pennsylvania are involved in the strike for a union shop, which would require miners to join the union after a stipulated period of employment. The Edenborn mine employs 882 men.

Walkouts in sympathy with the "captive" mine strike have spread to 76 commercial mines in western Pennsylvania, employing more than 46,000 men. The commercial mines produce coal for the open market.

Clinton Duffy delayed the death minute by minute as calls came from each successive court.

The gas was turned on at 10:15 a. m. The duchess was pronounced dead about 10:25 a. m.

About 60 persons witnessed her death.

Since her conviction and incarceration in the death cell five months ago, the woman who headed the notorious "duchess gang" had sought consolation in religion. Constantly she reclaimed her innocence.

only representative of any of the four to attend the hearing. Here for tomorrow's Penn-Cornell football game, Calderwood asked Magistrate Coyle to "take the word of the cashier of the Federal Reserve Bank" that his check was good, since he was without property here to qualify him to offer bail for his son.

"Nothing doing," replied Coyle. "No checks on anybody's word. No checks at all. Cash or real estate bail, and that's final. Until it's put up, those kids will wait in jail for a further hearing next week."

Dr. Thomas S. Gates, university president, said in a formal statement that the university regretted the "disorder" and announced the school "will take early steps to punish the offenders."

"Already a list of known participants have been obtained," he said, "and a number of students have been summoned by the committee on discipline for such punishment as seems indicated."

TWO INJURED
Two Erie men were injured yesterday afternoon in an accident on U. S. Route 6, three miles west of Pittsburgh, when a machine operated by Edmund Garsky, 21, crashed into a bank after a tire blew out. Garsky suffered a cut on the head and the left elbow. Marino Vicary, 21, suffered a head injury. Both were brought to the Warren General Hospital for treatment and later discharged.
